Funding and donations have started, thus enabling the JFCT to start making purchases for the necessary equipment which will enhance the boy's education at the Memorial Home.

The first new laptop computer was purchased through Amazon and delivered directly to the boy's home together with an electric sewing machine.

The new skill of typing is being practised on paper keyboard templates. This will help the boys with spelling and grammar as they further their education.

A new electric sewing machine, seen on the right, being used by the home's manager's wife. Some boys may take up the profession as a tailor when they leave school. Learning to use a sewing machine is a great advantage.
